

Everyone Else • 29/39 • Dibil al-Khuza'i

The Poem He Recited Anyway. Dibil recited a poem in front of Imam al-Rida that most people were too afraid to say out loud. Five items, no event print, dateless.

One style for the whole line — Fraunces and Nunito Sans, cut paper, the person on a stamp. Still open where it shows: the fact panel is TO VERIFY and the return address is not set.

ENVELOPE — C5, 229 × 162 MM

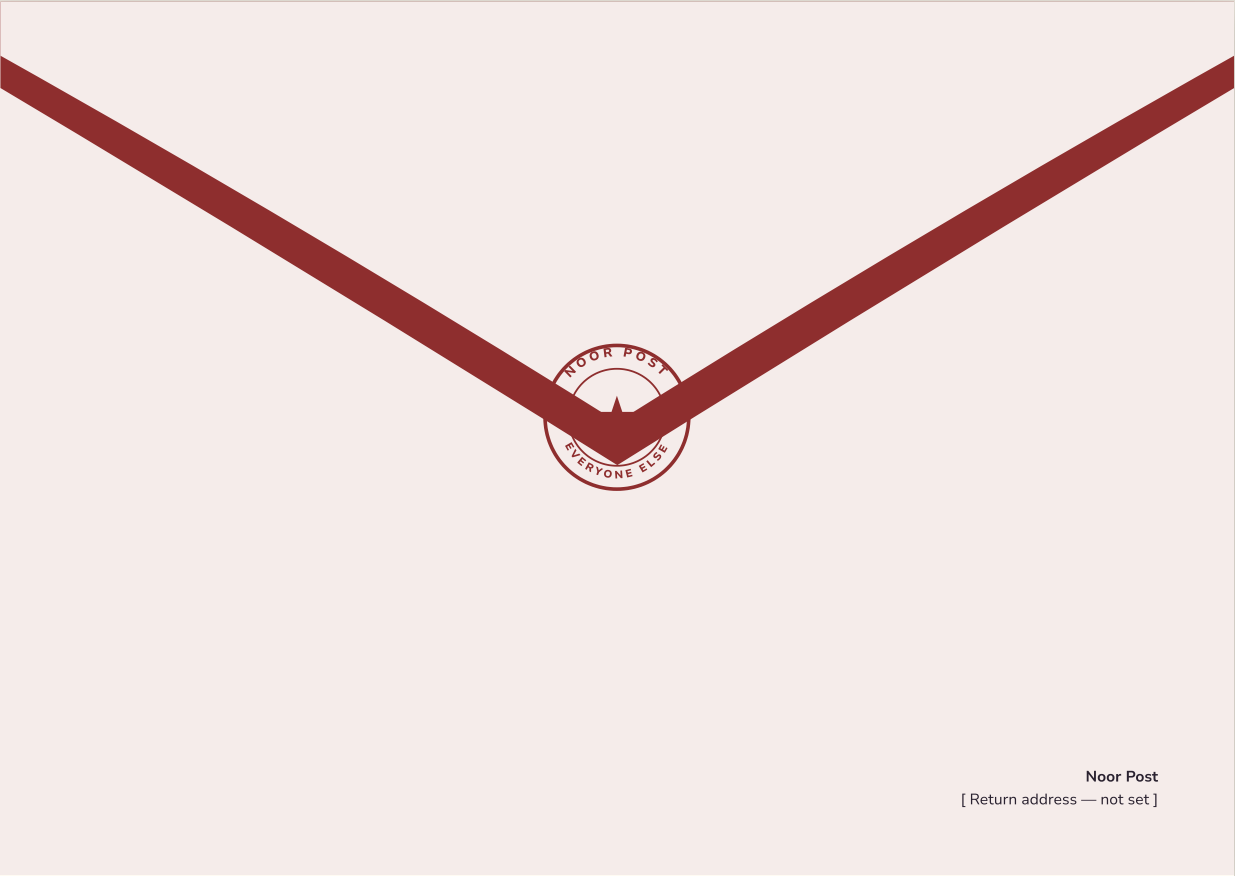

NOOR POST · EVERYONE ELSE

Dibil recited a poem in front of Imam al-Rida that most people were too afraid to say out loud.

FOR

[Child's name]

INSIDE THE FLAP

EVERYONE ELSE • DIBIL
AL-KHUZA'I • INSIDE THE
FLAP

Open together.

• is the grown-up. ○ is you.

- 1 The letter — read it out loud, • and ○ taking turns
- 2 The hadith card
- 3 The print
- 4 The stickers
- 5 The postcard

1 · THE LETTER — ONE A4 SHEET FOLDED TO A5

FACT PANEL

Dibil al-Khuza'i

- His craft. A poet, known and invited for his skill — poetry recited aloud, in company, remembered and repeated afterward.
- The poem. A long composition on the history of the Prophet's family, direct rather than guarded in what it named.
- Where he recited it. In the presence of Imam al-Rida, at real personal risk given the content and the setting.
- What followed. The Imam heard it through and gave Dibil his own cloak as a gift, in recognition of it.
- Why he is in this envelope. Dibil recited a poem in front of Imam al-Rida that most people were too afraid to say out loud.

Little else of his later life connects directly to this account.

UNVERIFIED — TO VERIFY

EVERYONE ELSE · DIBIL AL-KHUZA'I

The Poem He Recited Anyway

● is the grown-up · ○ is you · ●○ is together

- Dibil was a poet — the kind of poet people invited into a room specifically to hear what he had written, which is its own particular sort of danger.

○ Why would poetry be dangerous?

- Because a poem is a public thing, said out loud, in front of real witnesses. Once it's said, it can't be quietly taken back afterward, and everyone left in the room remembers exactly who said it, for a very long time.

○ What did he write, this time?

- A long poem about the family of the Prophet — their history, and what had been done to them over the years, told plainly, without softening a single line of it for anyone's comfort.

○ Was that sort of poem allowed?

- Not comfortably, no. It was the kind of poem most people composing it would keep strictly for private company, not recite anywhere it might be overheard, remembered, and repeated afterward.

○ Did he recite it anyway?

THE POEM HE RECITED ANYWAY · CONTINUED

- He did — in front of Imam al-Rida himself, at a time and in a place where the wrong lines, said in front of the wrong audience, could genuinely have cost him a very great deal indeed, and everyone in that room understood it.

- Was the Imam upset by it?

- The opposite, entirely. He listened all the way through without interrupting once, and when it finally ended, he gave Dibil his own cloak as a gift — a real, genuinely valuable thing, offered right there on the spot in front of everyone.

- Just for reciting a poem?

- For the poem, and for having said the whole of it, in front of him, without flinching once partway through and stopping.

- Would you say something true if it made others uncomfortable? Say it out loud.

- Most people already know the difference between believing something quietly and actually saying it where it counts.

SAY THIS ONE TOGETHER

•◦

He said the whole poem,
start to finish, and the
Imam gave him his own cloak.

Then the hadith card.

FIRST EDITION · 29/39

IMAM AL-RIDA SAID

“When you want to mention a present person, you should use his surname, but when you refer to an absent
person, you should use his name.”

Imam al-Rida

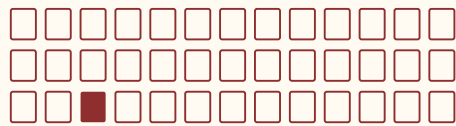

NOT A SILSILA SEGMENT · THIS SET HAS ITS OWN CHAIN

NOOR POST · EVERYONE ELSE

The other chain

The box holds fourteen cards, one for each of the Fourteen.
This set is the people around them: thirty-nine cards, collected in any order.

First edition · thirty-nine cards

IN OUR WORDS

When someone is with you, call them by their respectful name. When they are not there, you can use their own name.

Noor Post's own words, not the translation.

Tuhaf al-Uqul, short maxims of Imam al-Rida, no. 13. Translated by Badr Shahin, Ansariyan Publications, Qum.

Back — its own chain, no silsila number

Dibil al-Khuza'i

We opened this one together.

• _____

○ _____

Post it back to us, or keep it. Either is right.

STAMP

Noor Post

[Return address — not set]
